The Steel Industry Involved In a Tremendous Conflict

BIG COMBINE BEING RAKED OVER COALS

Federation of Labor Would Unionize Steel Plants.

APPEAL ISSUED TO WORKERS

Union Leaders Declare They Expect to Capture the Employees of the Steel Corporation, and Admit They Are Prepared For a Long and Hard Siege—Alleged Grievances of the Men Aired.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 17.—The American Federation of Labor threw down the gage to the United States Steel corporation, and began what many believe is destined to be one of the greatest conflicts between labor and capital in the history of the country. Steel and iron workers in all parts of the country have been appealed to and asked to unionize.

The action of the labor body began with the peaceful distribution of circulars appealing to the workingmen. Locally, circulars were distributed by members of the organization committee of the Cleveland Federation of Labor. They are printed in four languages.

"This is circular No. 1, and is to inform you of the plan to organize," the first announcement reads. "It will be followed by circular No. 2, which will explain the aims and objects of organized labor and describe in part the conditions of the mill workers at the present time."

"After you have read this circular, No. 2 will follow. It will be distributed in various ways to all workers in the iron and steel industry in the United States and Canada. It will inform all workers of the day and date of a meeting and the name and address of the place where the meeting will be held, so that all will have opportunity of attending."

"The object of having the meeting the same day and date is to effectually prevent discrimination." That the A. F. of L. intends to capture the iron workers and that it expects and is prepared for a long and hard battle in doing so, is frankly admitted by union leaders. Conditions among the employees of the steel corporation mills are described as intolerable. The pay is the lowest and the hours the longest, while the work is of the most exhausting kind, they say.

Last Thoughts Were Of Mother

Youth Who Came in Contact With Live Wire Dies in Hospital. Mount Vernon, N. Y., Sept. 17.—"Don't let my mother know anything about this, she isn't well," pleaded Henry L. McGee, 20, just before he died in the Mt. Vernon hospital. McGee, who was employed as a railway switchboard operator, was sent out to ground the wires of the electric power system so that painters could begin work on them. In some manner, as he was climbing down from a bridge, a wire that he carried came in contact with one of the overhead wires carrying 1,100 volts. He was thrown to the ground, his clothing took fire and the flesh of both hands and arms burned to the bone. He was hurried to the hospital, where he died.

Mother Assassinated. Chicago, Sept. 17.—Police are searching for an Italian assassin who shot and killed Mrs. Anna Nuccio while she was singing lullabies to two of her seven children. The shot woman was fired through a window and the assassin pitched forward on the bed, making another child who had fallen asleep.

War Harried Turkey Smitten By Severe Earthquake Shock

ILL fortune seems to be pursuing the Turkish people relentlessly. Not only is the empire doomed to lose its African dominions to Italy, but its integrity is threatened by the border struggles and insurrectionary movements in the Balkans, and to heap up the measure of its ills a severe earthquake has devastated a large section of the country. The center of the disturbance, which resulted in the death and injury of thousands, was the district bordering the Dardanelles. The seaport of Gallipoli, the chief station of the Turkish navy, is in ruins, and many smaller towns have been wiped out. The photograph here reproduced shows the ruins of Ganos Hora, a village about forty miles from Gallipoli, where eighty people were killed.

Wilson Grasps Hawkeye Hands

Democratic Presidential Candidate in Iowa Today.

ATTENDS AN INTERSTATE FAIR

Makes Reply to a Speech by Senator Beveridge in Which the Latter Said He Entertained Fears If the Governor Were Elected President He Would Be Controlled by the Bosses.

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 17.—Governor Woodrow Wilson was the guest of honor at the Interstate fair here today. He was given an enthusiastic welcome by the thousands assembled on the grounds. The governor was in a happy mood and made a nonpolitical address, which was well received. Tonight he will deliver a speech in this city, formally opening his campaign in the west. Wednesday will find the Democratic presidential candidate in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The governor had his first full day of real, rear-platform presidential campaigning. A score of speeches were delivered at as many points.

At once place Governor Wilson referred to a speech made last Saturday night by Senator Beveridge in which the latter said that he entertained a very serious fear that if the governor were elected president he would be controlled by the bosses. Governor Wilson declared that Senator Beveridge was a humorist, because if he didn't know that was a joke he ought to have known that it was.

"When did he ever hear that I had changed all my political habits? I am sorry to observe," he continued, "that whereas the Republican party has practically fostered the trusts and the Democratic party proposes to prevent monopoly in this country, the third party, represented by Senator Beveridge, proposes to take the monopoly in partnership with the government, by considering it as an inevitable necessity and bringing it under the regulation of law; that is to say, making it a legalized institution of the country."

Wants To Pension Mothers

Herbert Bigelow Announces He Will Boost the Proposition.

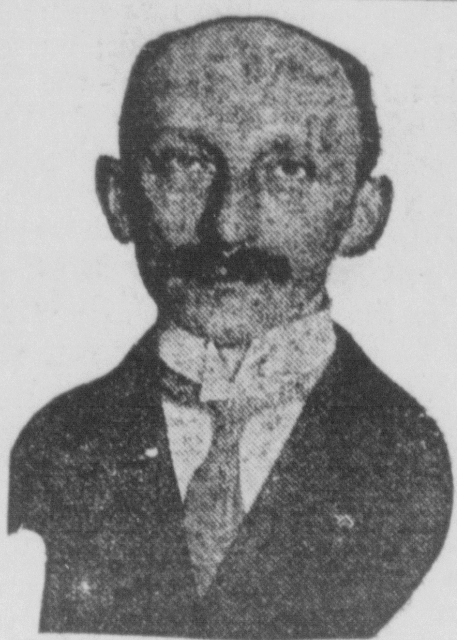

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 17.—Herbert S. Bigelow, who was president of the constitutional convention and who is a candidate for election as a member of the Ohio house of representatives, announced that he would, if elected, introduce a bill providing for mothers' pensions in Ohio. "This is one of the first things the legislature should take up," said Bigelow.

Diamond Rings Missing.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 17.—Members of the Euclid club are excited over the mysterious disappearance of two diamond rings, worth approximately $2,000, belonging to Mrs. W. C. White, wife of an automobile manufacturer. The rings were placed on the piano in the club music room by Mrs. White and forgotten. When she remembered, they were not to be found.

Washington, Sept. 17.—Gus J. Karger left for New York, where he is to become assistant to Chairman Charles D. Hillis of the Republican national committee. Karger will be in charge of the eastern campaign under the direction of Hillis. For the past two years Karger has been recognized as the press agent for the White House.

Immediate Hearing Promised

Cases of Senators Andrews and Huffman Will Be Set.

Columbus, O., Sept. 17.—The cases of State Senators L. R. Andrews and Isaac Huffman, who were indicted for alleged bribery, will be set for immediate hearing when the circuit court convenes next Monday for its fall term. Both legislators have announced that they will carry their cases to the supreme court, should the circuit court uphold the common pleas court in sentencing them to penitentiary terms.

Senators Cetone, Andrews and Huffman and Representative George B. Nye, all of whom were indicted, were in consultation with their attorneys here, completing preparations for the defense of Andrews and Huffman.

TIRED OF SYMPATHY

University Instructor Opens Gas Jet and Awaits Death.

Urbana, Ill., Sept. 17.—Professor Lee Wallace, instructor in architecture at the State university here, committed suicide in his rooms. Behind doors heavily barred with furniture, Wallace opened a gas jet, reined on a couch and awaited death. "I'm tired of being sympathized with because I look so badly," he stated in an unaddressed letter found in the room. The remainder of the note was in the nature of a will. Professor Wallace had a foreign scholarship in art.

Phlander C. Knox, special envoy from the United States to the funeral of Emperor Mutsuhito, was received in farewell audience by Emperor Yoshihito and later was guest at a luncheon in the imperial palace.

SUIT TO DISSOLVE HARVESTER TRUST

Witness Says Laws Force Complications on Corporations.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—The government began taking testimony in Chicago in the suit to dissolve the International Harvester company. The suit was brought following the failure of the corporation and the department of justice to come together on a plan for dissolution similar to that agreement by the Standard Oil company and the American Tobacco company.

Special Examiner Robert S. Taylor of Duluth, who took the testimony in the Standard Oil and Union Pacific suits, is hearing the witnesses, and when he has finished he will report back to Federal Judge Page Morris of St. Paul, before whom the case was started early in the year. The principal witness called was Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the company, and he told of the complications and unwieldy makeshifts forced upon large corporations by present federal laws.

In a statement the government's attorneys asserted that they had not decided whether to call George Perkins, chief financial backer of the Roosevelt campaign, who formerly represented J. P. Morgan in the big corporation.

Shop Owners Will Not Litigate

Will Not Attack Validity of Election to Amend Constitution.

Columbus, O., Sept. 17.—The Ohio Manufacturers' association will not be a party to the proposed suit to test the validity of the result of the special election to amend the constitution. If the suit is brought it will be by other interests and organizations.

For the Ohio Manufacturers' association three attorneys, John A. McMahon of Dayton, Daniel J. Ryan and T. P. Linn of Columbus, made a careful examination of the law questions involved and advised that no suit be brought.

They believe there is a grave doubt of the legality of the action on technical grounds, but do not think these grounds strong enough to persuade the court to set aside a fairly conducted and decisive election.

Barons Refuse To Arbitrate

Coal Operators Reject Governor Glasscock's Proposition.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 17.—Hopes of settling the strike in the Kanawha coal fields of West Virginia diminished when the coal operators refused to accept Governor Glasscock's plan of arbitration jointly offered the operators and miners. The plan was agreeable to the miners. The executive's plan was believed to be a solution of the trouble. The operators, however, refused to accept it as such on the ground that all men, both union and nonunion, would not abide by the decision.

"TOO GOOD FOR HIS JOB."

When a man thinks he is "too good for his job" its a sure sign that he's lucky to hold down any job at all.

Self centered, suspicious, jealous, his bump of self esteem often falsely inflated, he fails to realize that if he would knock the chip from his shoulder and attack his job, be it great or small, in the "do or die" spirit, it wouldn't be long until there would be plenty of jobs open to his choosing.

The man or woman who succeeds is the one who makes his or her job measure up to its full possibilities; who magnifies his work instead of decrying it.

The successful man realizes that grumpiness repels rather than attracts; that an attitude of being superior to the work put in his charge cheapens that work and makes him less efficient. It is up to him to make effective his present task; no matter how humble, and in doing this he acquires skill for the larger position.

The world is full of disgruntled men and women, bringing to their labor half hearted effort and a spirit of envy towards those above them. They fail to see that the success of those higher up has come largely because the worker has been so busy doing things that he has had no time nor inclination to complain.

The man who is "too good for his job" is terribly handicapped by the egotism which gives rise to and fosters that idea.

There have been very few men who were for any length of time too good for their jobs. Circumstances may occasionally play temporary havoc, the man of energy and capability seldom fails to come out on top. If the limp individual who rails against his condition and position will forget himself and his false standards and brace up to the full measure of his opportunity, taking hold of his job with a grip, he won't have time to groan over being "too good for his job". Instead a better job will be coming his way.

Poetry For Today

PRESUMPTION.

Am I so dull and dense a wight,
So near the missing link,
That other men should claim the right
To tell me what to think?

It is, I grant, no more than fair,
If I o'erstep the laws,
For other men to show me where
I must consent to pause.

'Tis right that they should mark the way
On which I may proceed
And check me if I dare to stray
Or do a harmful deed.

I have no right to madly strive,
Urged by my whims alone,
Or speak a word that would deprive
Another of his own.

But am I in so poor a plight,
So near dementia's brink,
That other men should claim the right
To tell me what to think?

Congressman Cox Expresses His Views On Moving Pictures

Favors a Proper Sunday Picture Show—Believes It Would Be Helpful to the People and Beneficial in a Moral Sense.

Congressman Cox, in a recent address before the Ohio branch of the Moving Picture Exhibitors' League of America, came out flatly for Sunday picture shows and for a State board of censors. His remarks have particular significance to Ohio exhibitors by reason of the Congressman's ambition to be the Governor of Ohio. Mr. Cox declared his belief that pictures of a religious character or of a high moral tone will do good. The Exhibition of pictures on Sunday, he said, will benefit many who do not go to church. "The right kind of pictures," he continued, "will probably attract as many to the picture houses as go to the churches." Discussing the regulation of the picture shows and censorship, he said:

"I subscribe to the State board of censors. If it ever comes within my power to assist in naming such a board it will be credited with men who will give the matter a common sense view."

Such talk as this is good to hear. There is no sound, justifiable reason, either in law or in morals, why pictures should not be exhibited on Sunday. The clergyman who serves notice on his community that it is either a case of coming to his church on a Sunday evening and listening to him or staying at home makes a confession of weakness. The exhibitor puts no rope about a man's neck to jerk him into his place of entertainment. Neither will he permit—certainly not without a stiff fight—any man or body of men to close his doors on Sunday and debar his patrons from entertainment which benefits them and injures no one. The exhibitor says in effect: "Let the church stand on its own bottom. Some are entertained by going there. Others are entertained by coming to me. All are benefitted. We both serve the community."

A HAPPY HUSBAND.

"Our house used to smell soapy and steamy wash days," says a well-known man, "but since my wife began buying Easy Task laundry soap, there is no more of that. I've investigated that soap and find it is made of purest coconut oil, cleanest talow, borax and naphtha, and that it not only cleans, but antiseptically clothes, cooking vessels and everything else washed with it. We tried it first by buying two cakes for ten cents, with the understanding that our money would be refunded if it didn't make good. Of course, it made good."

Tax for Single Men Is Being Urged Instead

By MOLLIE BROWN, San Francisco

UNDOUBTEDLY the men who first wore buttons advocated matrimony and wished for a wife. The old time bachelor buttons were essential to dignity and comfort and were not merely a tag of eligibility.

Mrs. Frank Page, society leader of Cambridge, Mass., blossomed forth and stated that a bachelor button (indicating freedom from matrimonial strife) should be worn on the coat lapel.

I doubt the advisability of tagging the dear boys who enjoy single blessedness.

What good would it do? It would not increase their usefulness, nor add to their popularity. Bachelor ensigns would probably mean, in the words of the old songs: "I'm Glad I'm Free" or "Darling, I Am Waiting for Thee," according to the viewpoint.

Some financiers say: "Don't tag the bachelors, but tax them." That is a thieving proposition and only married folks would sanction it.

The world needs bachelors—men and women—and they look good and do good without the label.

If there must needs be tagging done, I suggest that we tag the married man with a sign so large that "he who runs may read."

I don't think that bachelors pose as married men, but married men often pose as bachelors when seeking their soul mates.

Some sympathetic, well intentioned persons might say that a man encumbered or blessed (as the case might be) with a wife and family has tags enough. But is it not reasonable to suppose that any married man could carry the extra weight of a tag or button, bearing the warning: "Girls, I am not free, there are other tags on me."

Put a label on bachelors? Perish the thought. A tag would embarrass those worthy bachelors.

Remember this is leap year, and all liberty loving bachelors cherish the inspired words of Patrick Henry: "Give me liberty or give me death."

As a mother in Israel and a woman of experience and discretion, I wish to lift up my voice in the councils of the people and protest that not all the sartorial offenses are committed by members of my sex.

What is more idiotic and uncomfortable than the masculine street garb? The coat, in summer, is an abomination, as all men confess, yet they haven't the courage to go without it. Trousers are the last word in hideousness, and have neither comfort, grace nor modesty to commend them. And no woman would wear a stiff straw or derby hat that left its mark in a red groove around the forehead.

The laws of the Medes and Persians were not more inexorable than those governing men's attire—else why should men's shirts continue to be made as they are, with most of the cloth below the waist line? Little boys' waists are of the right cut, but then little boys' clothing is selected for their mammae.

"TOO GOOD FOR HIS JOB."

When a man thinks he is "too good for his job" its a sure sign that he's lucky to hold down any job at all.

Self centered, suspicious, jealous, his bump of self esteem often falsely inflated, he fails to realize that if he would knock the chip from his shoulder and attack his job, be it great or small, in the "do or die" spirit, it wouldn't be long until there would be plenty of jobs open to his choosing.

The man or woman who succeeds is the one who makes his or her job measure up to its full possibilities; who magnifies his work instead of degrading it.

The successful man realizes that grumpiness repels rather than attracts; that an attitude of being superior to the work put in his charge cheapens that work and makes him less efficient. It is up to him to make effective his present task; no matter how humble, and in doing this he acquires skill for the larger position.

The world is full of disgruntled men and women, bringing to their labor half hearted effort and a spirit of envy towards those above them. They fail to see that the success of those higher up has come largely because the worker has been so busy doing things that he has had no time nor inclination to complain.

The man who is "too good for his job" is terribly handicapped by the egotism which gives rise to and fosters that idea.

There have been very few men who were for any length of time too good for their jobs. Circumstances may occasionally play temporary havoc, the man of energy and capability seldom fails to come out on top. If the limp individual who rails against his condition and position will forget himself and his false standards and brace up to the full measure of his opportunity, taking hold of his job with a grip, he won't have time to groan over being "too good for his job". Instead a better job will be coming his way.

Poetry For Today

PRESUMPTION.

Am I so dull and dense a wight,
So near the missing link,
That other men should claim the right
To tell me what to think?

It is, I grant, no more than fair,
If I o'erstep the laws,
For other men to show me where
I must consent to pause.

'Tis right that they should mark the way
On which I may proceed
And check me if I dare to stray
Or do a harmful deed.

I have no right to madly strive,
Urged by my whims alone,
Or speak a word that would deprive
Another of his own.

But am I in so poor a plight,
So near dementia's brink,
That other men should claim the right
To tell me what to think?

THE OLD, OLD STORY

Congressman Cox Expresses His Views On Moving Pictures

Favors a Proper Sunday Picture Show—Believes It Would Be Helpful to the People and Beneficial in a Moral Sense.

Congressman Cox, in a recent address before the Ohio branch of the Moving Picture Exhibitors' League of America, came out flatly for Sunday picture shows and for a State board of censors. His remarks have particular significance to Ohio exhibitors by reason of the Congressman's ambition to be the Governor of Ohio. Mr. Cox declared his belief that pictures of a religious character or of a high moral tone will do good. The exhibition of pictures on Sunday, he said, will benefit many who do not go to church. "The right kind of pictures," he continued, "will probably attract as many to the picture houses as go to the churches." Discussing the regulation of the picture shows and censorship, he said:

"I subscribe to the State board of censors. If it ever comes within my pervue to assist in naming such a board it will be credited with men who will give the matter a common sense view."

Such talk as this is good to hear. There is no sound, justifiable reason, either in law or in morals, why pictures should not be exhibited on Sunday. The clergyman who serves notice on his community that it is either a case of coming to his church on a Sunday evening and listening to him or staying at home makes a confession of weakness. The exhibitor puts no rope about a man's neck to jerk him into his place of entertainment. Neither will he permit—certainly not without a stiff fight—any man or body of men to close his doors on Sunday and debar his patrons from entertainment which benefits them and injures no one. The exhibitor says in effect: "Let the church stand on its own bottom. Some are entertained by going there. Others are entertained by coming to me. All are benefitted. We both serve the community."

A HAPPY HUSBAND.

"Our house used to smell soapy and steamy wash days," says a well-known man, "but since my wife began buying Easy Task laundry soap, there is no more of that. I've investigated that soap and find it is made of purest coconut oil, cleanest talow, borax and naphtha, and that it not only cleans, but antiseptifies clothes, cooking vessels and everything else washed with it. We tried it first by buying two cakes for ten cents, with the understanding that our money would be refunded if it didn't make good. Of course, it made good."

VIEW OF OTHERS

FARM CROPS AND PRICES.

One of the reasons for the increasing cost of living is furnished by a census bulletin just issued, although no mention of that detail is contained therein. The bulletin shows that while the market value of the leading crops increased enormously, the quantity made only a slight gain, in most cases. The aggregate selling price of the crops of all sorts jumped from $2,999,000,000 in 1899 to $5,487,000,000 in 1909, or a gain of 83 per cent.

Here is one decidedly obvious cause of the advance in the cost of living. While 1909 is the latest year covered by this census leaflet, the story which it tells would merely be emphasized if it were brought down to today. There has been no material increase in the output since 1909, but the market value of the aggregate yield has gone up far in this time. We pay more for our food, and also for our clothing, the cotton fabrics as well as the woolen, than we did then. Cereals increased in production in the decade here covered only 1.7 per cent., but their value rose 79.8 per cent. Cotton production increased in that time 11.7 per cent, but the producers got 117.3 per cent more for their crop.

The remedy, of course, is to increase the output so as to make it come nearer meeting the demand than it has done in recent years. The 21 per cent growth of the country's population in the past decade was several times as great as the expansion in cotton and wool, taken together, while it was many times greater than that in the food articles. Here is a chance for the so-called "scientific farming," of which we hear much. On far poorer soil the European wheat raiser produces from 50 to 80 per cent more of that cereal, on an average, than does the American farmer. Incidentally, here is the chief reason why our exports of agricultural products have fallen off materially in recent years. Prices are too high for European consumers.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

MANY DRIVEN FROM HOME.

Every year, in many parts of the country, thousands are driven from their homes by coughs and lung diseases. Friends and business are left behind for other climates, but this is costly and not always sure. A better way—the way of multitudes—is to use Dr. King's New Discovery and cure yourself at home. Stay right there, with your friends, and take this safe medicine. Throat and lung troubles find quick relief and health returns. Its help in coughs, colds, grip, croup, whooping-cough and sore lungs make it a positive blessing. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Blackmer & Tanquary.

THOUSANDS FAIL TO COLLECT MONEY DUE FROM UNCLE SAM

The reported loss of many thousands of dollars by the sinking of the Titanic a few weeks ago, calls attention to the fact that the Government of the United States frequently benefits by the misfortunes of the people, says the National City Bank in its July circular. It never can be known what amount of United States money went down with the Titanic, but, whatever the sum, the Treasury Department has so much additional to its credit, as it can never be presented for redemption.

A week rarely or never passes that the Treasury Department does not receive for redemption a number of packages containing money that has been partly destroyed by fire, and in all cases where the bills can be satisfactorily identified, new money is issued therefor; but frequently only a portion of the bill remains, and in that event, if three fifths of the note can be identified the full face value is returned to the owner, but if less than three fifths can be identified only one half of the value is returned. These losses by fire aggregate each year a very large sum, but what has become of the millions of dollars of which there is no trace, is an unsolved problem. Treasury officials speak of the great fires that in years past have swept Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, Baltimore, and other cities, and estimate that many millions must have been lost in these great conflagrations.

Early in the Civil War the United States issued over $400,000,000 of legal tender notes, which were used in payment of all government obligations, including the pay of the armies in the field. At this time there are still outstanding over $3,000,000 of these notes in the denomination of $1 and $2 alone, which are never heard from, except now and then a stray bill or two is presented for redemption. It is a fair assumption that a large percentage of the whole $3,000,000 has been accidentally destroyed, and this is undoubtedly true of all of the old issues.

Soon after the war began the Government issued from time to time an aggregate of nearly $369,000,000 in fractional paper money, and something over $15,000,000 is still carried in the Treasury accounts as outstanding, although only a few hundred dollars are presented each year for redemption.

As far as these old-time war "shin-plasters" come in the Treasury destroys all of them that are much mutilated and worn, but they are never paid out again, other than in small amounts and in exceptional cases. The Treasury now has on hand only about $246 of these small notes. In 1879 the department recognized the fact that comparatively few of these old fractional notes would ever be presented to the Treasury, directed the segregation of a fund of something over $8,000,000 held in the Treasury for the redemption of these notes, the amount to be applied to the payment of war pensions. Large sums of this issue are no doubt held by collectors as souvenirs.

Of the Civil War issue of compound interest notes which amounted to nearly $267,000,000 there still remains outstanding approximately $160,000, and of this issue only $70 came to the Treasury last year. Of the issue of seventy-three notes running from 1861 to 1865, which totaled about $970,000,000, there is still outstanding $130,000, and only $100 in these notes was redeemed last year.

Of the war time demand notes issue of $60,000,000, a total of $53,000 is still unaccounted for, and none of this issue has recently been presented for redemption.

During the issue of the Spanish War loan in June and July, 1898, 235,000 Government checks were sent to subscribers for small amounts of these bonds, which represented the interest due from the date of its receipt until August 1, the date of the bonds, and over 10,000 of these checks have never been presented for payment. It is assumed that as nearly all of the checks were for small amounts, some of them for only a few cents, they have also been kept for souvenirs.

Many people who receive Government checks in payment of interest on live bonds seem to be very careless or not in need of funds, as a large number of these checks have never been presented for payment. One party alone is known to have in his possession an aggregate of many thousands of dollars represented by these checks and although frequently importuned to present them for payment, he has so far neglected to do so.

An investigation recently made by the Secretary of the Treasury discloses the fact that many national banks are holders of these checks, and the Treasury now has the names of over 100 national banks who have thus far neglected to present them for payment.

This failure on the part of any such check holder to present them has caused the Secretary to issue an order to the effect that when such interest checks remain unpaid for more than three full, fiscal years, the holder will be required to prove his right to them. In addition, it is probable that new checks will have to be issued covering the amounts of the old.—New York Times.

THE MEN WHO SUCCEED

as heads of large enterprises are men of great energy. Success, today, demands health. To all is to fail. It's utter folly for a man to endure a weak, run-down, half alive condition when Electric Bitters will put him right on his feet in short order. "Four bottles did me more real good than any other medicine I ever took," writes Chas. B. Allen, Sylvania, Ga. "After years of suffering with rheumatism, liver trouble, stomach disorders and deranged kidneys, I am again, thanks to Electric Bitters, sound and well." Try them. New Haven, Conn., Sept. 17.—Vice President James S. Sherman of Utica is stopping at Grove Beach, Conn., a summer resort on the east shore of the Connecticut river. He is there for the restoration of his health, and by orders of his physician. Mrs. Sherman is with him and sees to it that he takes his medicine regularly. The long and trying session of congress during the winter and hot summer months wore down his health.

Fire Prevention Day

Columbus, O., Sept. 17.—A fire prevention proclamation was issued by Governor Harmon at the request of the National Fire Prevention association. Oct. 9 is designated as "Fire Prevention Day" and the people of the state are asked to inspect their premises on that day and free them from anything inflammable, and to take steps to prevent fire. It is also requested that the school children be instructed in the things to do to guard against fire.

suppressed or attempted to suppress the evidence, the justice brought to bear his authority as a committing magistrate in John Doe proceedings for the purpose of investigating all the circumstances of the arrests.

Although the inquiry is being conducted in secret, it is known that one of the points on which information is sought was whether or not Lefty Louie and Gyp the Blood were tracked and caught in the manner described by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty.

Developments of the day were as sensational almost as any of the outcroppings of a case that has produced extraordinary news with the vehemence and regularity of a geyser.

The acting district attorney demonstrated forcibly his suspicions that the police may have continued to act in poor faith.

Waiter Surprises Crowd.

Louis Krese, the waiter whose dramatic identification of Bridgie Webber and Jack Sullivan as men whom he had seen in front of the Metropolitan when Herman Rosenthal was shot, placed that pair in the Tombs as accused murderers, surprised the crowded courtroom by identifying Rosenberg and Horowitz as two of the four gunmen who killed Rosenthal, and by picking out Max Kramer, the pickpocket arrested with Rosenberg and Horowitz, as one of the sentinels of the murder job.

Justice Goff postponed the arraignment of Rosenberg and Horowitz until Wednesday.

Lefty Louie and Gyp the Blood merrily described to their counsel, Charles F. Wahle, how easily they had eluded the police while they were supposed to be trembling in hiding. They did not immerse themselves at all, they told Mr. Wahle. They were constantly out and about, taking part in the gay life of their set. They frisked and frolicked in the Coney Island mardis gras and they came frequently to Manhattan on errands of pleasure.

Haywood in Ohio

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 17.—William D. Haywood, general organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, pleaded not guilty in the Essex superior court here to two indictments charging him in 22 counts with conspiracy and with intimidation against mill employees in the textile strike last winter. He was held in $1,000, which was furnished. Then Haywood hurried to the railroad station. He is scheduled to speak at Canton, O., this evening.

Mining Camp Looted

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 17.—El Tigre, an American mining camp in Sonora, captured recently by rebels, was relieved by 100 federal soldiers, but not until after the rebels had looted the store and departed with $60,000 worth of gold bullion. The federalists were within four miles of the town, but made no move to go in until messengers went out and informed them that the rebels had gone.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Brewers In Session.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 17.—Eight hundred members of the National Brewers' association gathered here in twenty-sixth annual convention, being called to order by President C. F. Rissert of Boston and welcomed by Mayor Newton D. Baker of Cleveland. Three busy days of convention work and entertainment confront the association.

Motorcyclist Killed; Girl Hurt.

Columbus, O., Sept. 17.—Benjamin C. Atkinson, 22, was killed and Iva Lyman, 24, was seriously injured seven miles west of Columbus when a motorcycle on which they were riding collided with a farm wagon loaded with furniture. Atkinson was a bellboy at the Hartman hotel and Miss Lyman a chambermaid there.

Shoots and Kills Wife.

Toledo, O., Sept. 17.—Brushing aside his 15-year-old son Marion, Carey S. Beidler, 38, of Waterloo, Ind., shot and killed his wife as she sat at the supper table in her apartments here. Beidler is in jail. The couple had been separated.

Rich Merchant's Plight

Suicide and Breach of Promise Suit Follows His Marriage.

New York, Sept. 17.—The marriage on March 5 last of Harold Winthrop Gould, a woolen merchant and son of the late Robert S. Gould of Brooklyn, who was also in the same business, caused the suicide on March 15 of Miss Mary McGourn, a trained nurse, who believed that Mr. Gould intended to marry her. Now a suit for breach of promise has been filed against Mr. Gould by Miss Merlybie E. Leonard, who is said to live upstate. The woman to whom Gould was married on March 5 was Mrs. Sophy Delsinge, daughter of James P. McQuaide, the Pittsburgh steel man. She had divorced her husband in 1906 and lived most of the time since in Europe.

Wages Are Boosted

Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 17.—The Eastern Steel company announced an increase of 15 per cent in the wages of all its employees in the rolling mills. Several hundred men will receive from $20 to $25 per month more as the result of the increase, and it was learned that the company contemplates an increase to all its 1,500 employees.

Flies by Moonlight

Garden City, L. I., Sept. 17.—Probably the first woman to win an aviator's license flying by moonlight is Miss Benetta Miller, a pupil of the Moissant school. Before a good-sized crowd of spectators and in the presence of the officers of the Aero club, Miss Miller accomplished the feat. In the landing contest, in which she was to land within 164 feet of a given mark, Miss Miller made her landing within 20 feet.

Taft To See Hilles

Will Steer Clear of New York Republican State Convention.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 17.—President Taft will spend several hours in New York next Tuesday for a political conference with Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican national committee. As this is the day preceding the convening of the Republican state convention at Saratoga, Mr. Taft and Chairman Hilles may discuss the New York situation as well as national politics. While the president will follow the advice of Chairman Hilles, it is known that he will not interfere with the selection of the Republican candidates by the convention.

Two nights ago he was found unconscious in his cabin. Dr. Goff, who took a number of stitches in the wound, said he didn't know whether the captain had been attacked or attempted suicide. BANNER YIELD OF COTTON IN THE SUNNY SOUTH

The cotton crop of the South for the year ending August 31, 1912, according to statistics compiled by H. G. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, exceeded that of the previous year by 4,018,331 bales. Its money value was $107,074,825 less, due as much to the low grade of the crop as to the decrease in the price resulting from overproduction. It was the lowest in grade of any crop for the past ten years.

Hester says that an acreage in cotton larger than ever before cultivated in the Southern States, induced by the high prices of the two previous years, uniformly dry and hot weather during the growing season, a very late frost and a long open fall for harvesting and combined towards the production of a crop larger by 2,300,000 bales than ever before recorded.

A further important factor, he says, was that the boll weevil was greatly reduced in numbers over its entire range. So unfavorable were the climatic conditions that the insect was exterminated in an area covering about 23,000 square miles in Northwestern Texas and Western Oklahoma.

Medium Class Decreased.

For middling the average price per pound of 10.16 cents compares with 14.60 cents per pound last year, 14.37 cents the year before and 9.45 in 1908-09. The total value of the crop compared with previous years is as follows:

Years	Bales	Values
1911-12	16,138,426	$810,280,764
1910-11	12,120,095	917,355,589
1909-10	10,669,668	778,894,095
1908-09	13,825,457	683,794,494

If to the total of the crop the value of the cotton seed is added, the actual wealth-producing capacity of the Southern cotton farms this year would be $937,710,073. Last year the total value, including seed, was $1,030,133,527, so that for a crop embracing 4,018,000 bales more cotton and 1,822,000 tons more seed the South received nearly $92,500,000 less money.

Hester approximates the actual growth at 16,501,000 bales.

Last Year's Consumption Record.

During the last year, he says, there was the heaviest consumption of American cotton on record, exceeding the previous maximum of 1908-09 by 1,358,000 bales, the surplus going to fill the vacuum of the last two years and increasing the visible and invisible supply to 550,000 in excess of the total, which prevailed at the close of 1909.

In reference to American mills, Hester says the year's operations have shown greater activity than ever before in the history of cotton manufacturers. He put the consumption of American cotton at 14,150,000 bales, an increase over last year of 2,761,000.

In the South, Hester makes the consumption 380,451 bales over last year and 402,764 over the year before.

Yellow Boys From Europe.

New York, Sept. 17.—An engagement of $750,000 in gold for import from Europe was made by Goldman Sachs & Company. This is the first gold imported from Europe in more than two years and is believed to mark the beginning of a movement to bring the yellow metal from Europe to finance the American crops.

THOUSANDS FAIL TO COLLECT MONEY DUE FROM UNCLE SAM

The reported loss of many thousands of dollars by the sinking of the Titanic a few weeks ago, calls attention to the fact that the Government of the United States frequently benefits by the misfortunes of the people, says the National City Bank in its July circular. It never can be known what amount of United States money went down with the Titanic, but, whatever the sum, the Treasury Department has so much additional to its credit, as it can never be presented for redemption.

A week rarely or never passes that the Treasury Department does not receive for redemption a number of packages containing money that has been partly destroyed by fire, and in all cases where the bills can be satisfactorily identified, new money is issued therefor; but frequently only a portion of the bill remains, and in that event, if three fifths of the note can be identified the full face value is returned to the owner, but if less than three fifths can be identified only one half of the value is returned. These losses by fire aggregate each year a very large sum, but what has become of the millions of dollars of which there is no trace, is an unsolved problem. Treasury officials speak of the great fires that in years past have swept Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, Baltimore, and other cities, and estimate that many millions must have been lost in these great conflagrations.

Early in the Civil War the United States issued over $400,000,000 of legal tender notes, which were used in payment of all government obligations, including the pay of the armies in the field. At this time there are still outstanding over $3,000,000 of these notes in the denomination of $1 and $2 alone, which are never heard from, except now and then a stray bill or two is presented for redemption. It is a fair assumption that a large percentage of the whole $3,000,000 has been accidentally destroyed, and this is undoubtedly true of all of the old issues.

Soon after the war began the Government issued from time to time an aggregate of nearly $369,000,000 in fractional paper money, and something over $15,000,000 is still carried in the Treasury accounts as outstanding, although only a few hundred dollars are presented each year for redemption.

As far as these old-time war "shin-plasters" come in the Treasury destroys all of them that are much mutilated and worn, but they are never paid out again, other than in small amounts and in exceptional cases. The Treasury now has on hand only about $246 of these small notes. In 1879 the department recognized the fact that comparatively few of these old fractional notes would ever be presented to the Treasury, directed the segregation of a fund of something over $8,000,000 held in the Treasury for the redemption of these notes, the amount to be applied to the payment of war pensions. Large sums of this issue are no doubt held by collectors as souvenirs.

Of the Civil War issue of compound interest notes which amounted to nearly $267,000,000 there still remains outstanding approximately $160,000, and of this issue only $70 came to the Treasury last year. Of the issue of seventy-three notes running from 1861 to 1865, which totaled about $970,000,000, there is still outstanding $130,000, and only $100 in these notes was redeemed last year.

Of the war time demand notes issue of $60,000,000, a total of $53,000 is still unaccounted for, and none of this issue has recently been presented for redemption.

During the issue of the Spanish War loan in June and July, 1898, 235,000 Government checks were sent to subscribers for small amounts of these bonds, which represented the interest due from the date of its receipt until August 1, the date of the bonds, and over 10,000 of these checks have never been presented for payment. It is assumed that as nearly all of the checks were for small amounts, some of them for only a few cents, they have also been kept for souvenirs.

Many people who receive Government checks in payment of interest on live bonds seem to be very careless or not in need of funds, as a large number of these checks have never been presented for payment. One party alone is known to have in his possession an aggregate of many thousands of dollars represented by these checks and although frequently importuned to present them for payment, he has so far neglected to do so.

An investigation recently made by the Secretary of the Treasury discloses the fact that many national banks are holders of these checks, and the Treasury now has the names of over 100 national banks who have thus far neglected to present them for payment.

This failure on the part of any such check holder to present them has caused the Secretary to issue an order to the effect that when such interest checks remain unpaid for more than three full, fiscal years, the holder will be required to prove his right to them. In addition, it is probable that new checks will have to be issued covering the amounts of the old.—New York Times.

THE MEN WHO SUCCEED

As heads of large enterprises are men of great energy. Success, today, demands health. To all is to fail. It's utter folly for a man to endure a weak, run-down, half alive condition when Electric Bitters will put him right on his feet in short order. "Four bottles did me more real good than any other medicine I ever took," writes Chas. B. Allen, Sylvania, Ga. "After years of suffering with rheumatism, liver trouble, stomach disorders and deranged kidneys, I am again, thanks to Electric Bitters, sound and well." Try them. Only 50 cents at Blackmer & Tanquary.

The long and trying session of congress during the winter and hot summer months wore down his health.

Fire Prevention Day

Columbus, O., Sept. 17.—A fire prevention proclamation was issued by Governor Harmon at the request of the National Fire Prevention association. Oct. 9 is designated as "Fire Prevention Day" and the people of the state are asked to inspect their premises on that day and free them from anything inflammable, and to take steps to prevent fire. It is also requested that the school children be instructed in the things to do to guard against fire.

suppressed or attempted to suppress the evidence, the justice brought to bear his authority as a committing magistrate in John Doe proceedings for the purpose of investigating all the circumstances of the arrests.

Although the inquiry is being conducted in secret, it is known that one of the points on which information is sought was whether or not Lefty Louie and Gyp the Blood were tracked and caught in the manner described by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty.

Developments of the day were sensational almost as any of the outcroppings of a case that has produced extraordinary news with the vehemence and regularity of a geyser.

The acting district attorney demonstrated forcibly his suspicions that the police may have continued to act in poor faith.

Waiter Surprises Crowd.

Louis Kiese, the waiter whose dramatic identification of Bridgie Webber and Jack Sullivan as men whom he had seen in front of the Metropolitan when Herman Rosen-thal was shot, placed that pair in the Tombs as accused murderers, surprised the crowded courtroom by identifying Rosenberg and Horowitz as two of the four gunmen who killed Rosen-thal, and by picking out Max Kramer, the pickpocket arrested with Rosenberg and Horowitz, as one of the sentinels of the murder job.

Justice Goff postponed the arraignment of Rosenberg and Horowitz until Wednesday.

Lefty Louie and Gyp the Blood merrily described to their counsel, Charles F. Wahle, how easily they had eluded the police while they were supposed to be trembling in hiding. They did not impute themselves at all, they told Mr. Wahle. They were constantly out and about, taking part in the gay life of their set. They frisked and frolicked in the Coney Island mardis gras and they came frequently to Manhattan on errands of pleasure.

Mining Camp Looted

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 17.—El Tigre, an American mining camp in Sonora, captured recently by rebels, was relieved by 100 federal soldiers, but not until after the rebels had looted the store and departed with $60,000 worth of gold bullion. The federals were within four miles of the town, but made no move to go in until messengers went out and informed them that the rebels had gone.

Suicide and Breach of Promise Suit Follows His Marriage.

New York, Sept. 17.—The marriage on March 5 last of Harold Winthrop Gould, a woolen merchant and son of the late Robert S. Gould of Brooklyn, who was also in the same business, caused the suicide on March 15 of Miss Mary McGoun, a trained nurse, who believed that Mr. Gould intended to marry her. Now a suit for breach of promise has been filed against Mr. Gould by Miss Merlybie E. Leonard, who is said to live up state. BANNER YIELD OF COTTON IN THE SUNNY SOUTH

The cotton crop of the South for the year ending August 31, 1912, according to statistics compiled by H. G. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, exceeded that of the previous year by 4,018,331 bales. Its money value was $107,074,825 less, due as much to the low grade of the crop as to the decrease in the price resulting from overproduction. It was the lowest in grade of any crop for the past ten years.

Hester says that an acreage in cotton larger than ever before cultivated in the Southern States, induced by the high prices of the two previous years, uniformly dry and hot weather during the growing season, a very late frost and a long open fall for harvesting and combined towards the production of a crop larger by 2,300,000 bales than ever before recorded.

A further important factor, he says, was that the boll weevil was greatly reduced in numbers over its entire range. So unfavorable were the climatic conditions that the insect was exterminated in an area covering about 23,000 square miles in Northwestern Texas and Western Oklahoma.

Medium Class Decreased.

For middling the average price per pound of 1912 cents compares with 14.60 cents per pound last year, 14.37 cents the year before and 9.45 in 1908-09. The total value of the crop compared with previous years is as follows:

Years.	Bales	Values
1911-12	16,138,426	$810,280,764
1910-11	12,120,095	917,355,589
1909-10	10,609,668	778,894,095
1908-09	13,825,457	683,794,494

If to the total of the crop the value of the cotton seed is added, the actual wealth-producing capacity of the Southern cotton farms this year would be $937,719,973. Last year the total value, including seed, was $1,030,133,527, so that for a crop embracing 4,018,000 bales more cotton and 1,822,000 tons more seed the South received nearly $92,500,000 less money.

Hester approximates the actual growth at 16,501,000 bales.

Last Year's Consumption Record.

During the last year, he says, there was the heaviest consumption of American cotton on record, exceeding the previous maximum of 1908-09 by 1,358,000 bales, the surplus going to fill the vacuum of the last two years and increasing the visible and invisible supply to 550,000 in excess of the total, which prevailed at the close of 1909.

In reference to American mills, Hester says the year's operations have shown greater activity than ever before in the history of cotton manufacturers. He put the consumption of American cotton at 14,150,000 bales, an increase over last year of 2,761,000.

In the South, Hester makes the consumption 380,451 bales over last year and 402,764 over the year before.

Keeps Your Stove "Always Ready for Company"

A bright, clean, glossy stove is the joy and pride of every housekeeper. But it is hard to keep a stove nice and shiny—unless Black Silk Stove Polish is used. Here is the reason: Black Silk Stove Polish sticks right to the iron. It doesn't rub off or dust off. Its shine lasts four times longer than the shine of any other polish. You only need to polish one-fourth as often, yet your stove will be cleaner, brighter and better looking than it has been since you first bought it. Use on your parlor stove, kitchen stove or gas stove. Get a can from your hardware or stove dealer. If you do not find it better than any other stove polish you have ever used before, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. But we feel sure you will agree with the thousands of other up-to-date women who are now using Black Silk Stove Polish and who say it is the "best stove polish ever made."

BLACK SILK STOVE POLISH

LIQUID OR PASTE ONE QUALITY

Be sure to get the genuine. Black Silk Stove Polish costs you no more than the ordinary kind. Keep your grates, registers, tenders and stove pipes bright and free from rusting by using BLACK SILK AIR-DRYING ENAMEL. Brush free with each can of enamel only.

Use BLACK SILK METAL POLISH for silverware, nickel, tinware or brass. It works quickly, easily, and leaves a brilliant surface. It has no equal for use on automobiles.

Factory Committee Will Meet at Y. M. C. A. Tonight

Will Investigate Merits of the Enterprise Which Seeks Admission to Washington—Mr. Maclean Arrives on Morning Train.

Tonight at eight o'clock the committee appointed to meet with Mr. I. V. Maclean and Mr. W. V. Smith to investigate their proposal of locating the big foundry plant in this city, will meet at the Y. M. C. A. committee room, and go over the proposal with a view to establishing the merits of the enterprise as proposed.

The committee consists of Messrs. H. G. Coffman (chairman), Wm. Worthington, George Jackson, James Ford, George Swope, Roy O. Young and Henry Brownell. Their work is simply to investigate the merits of the industry and the standing of those back of it.

Mr. Maclean arrived on the morning train and Mr. Smith is expected on the evening train.

Xenia is making efforts to land the enterprise at that place. However the shipping facilities at this point are more desirable than at Xenia. During an interview Tuesday morning Mr. Maclean stated that the first suitable town raising $20,000 would land the enterprise, as it is the intention to incorporate when that amount is secured. He expressed himself as confident of raising the amount here in short order if the committee, after an investigation finds the proposal just as represented.

Much interest centers in the result of the meeting tonight.

Man Meets Death Under Pennsy Train

William Cage, 45 years of age was run over and one leg cut off by a train on the Pennsylvania road near Lancaster Saturday night, and for four hours the man lay without assistance while his life blood ebbed away. He was found at midnight, but death resulted Sunday morning.

The train which struck him is the one which leaves this city at 5:58 in the evening. It is supposed that he was on the train and fell off. He lived near Union Furnace in Hocking county.

Abling Ordered Out of the City

Wearied with beholding William Abling loafing about the city with no apparent means of livelihood, Mayor Smith Tuesday morning ordered the man out of the city under threats of causing his arrest for vagrancy.

At the time the orders were issued, Abling was with a character from Good Hope who has been under arrest for selling intoxicants.

Abling is the man arrested on suspicion of being connected with the recent plot to extort money under threats of death, and since his release has been frequenting the streets and loafing places.

JEFFERSONVILLE SCHOOLS ARE CLOSED BY EPIDEMIC

The appearance of a number of cases of severe sore throat, or diphtheria, has resulted in the closing of Jeffersonville's public schools for the week, while efforts are being made to stamp out the disease.

The disease first made its appearance the latter part of last week, and the situation became such that the Board of Education deemed it advisable to dismiss school until further danger was past.

None of the cases are regarded as serious, and with the assistance of anti-toxin there is little to fear.

While the schools have been closed, it seems that no quarantine has been established owing to the doubt entertained as to whether or not the sore throat is genuine diphtheria.

If All Voted Like Vermont

It is interesting to calculate how the vote for President as between Taft and Wilson, would be cast in November, if the whole country votes as Vermont voted on Tuesday.

To compute this result we should have to deduct 8 per cent from the vote cast for Taft four years ago and apportion the remaining vote in the ratio of 62 to 38 between Taft and Roosevelt, and we would have to add 25 per cent to Bryan's vote in 1908, and give the "deminiton total" to Woodrow Wilson. In other words, give Taft 57 per cent and Roosevelt 35 per cent of Taft's vote four years ago, and give Wilson 125 per cent of Bryan's vote four years ago.

The result in round numbers would be as follows, so far as regards Taft and Wilson:

Wonderful Growth Of Leading Cities

A recent bulletin of the Census Bureau shows that there has been a marked increase in the past decade in the number of American cities of over 25,000 population. The United States has 229 of these, or much more than any other country of the world, except China. Almost every state has one or more of these cities, but Massachusetts leads all the rest, with 25 of them, or more than are found in New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois or Ohio, states which lead in the aggregate number of inhabitants. Massachusetts's ascendancy in this particular is chiefly due to its vast expansion in manufactures, which makes it the most thickly settled state of the whole 48, except Rhode Island. It is much more thickly settled than are most of the countries of Europe.

Of the cities which have over 25,000 people now, the lead in rate of growth in the past 10 years was greatest, 539 per cent, in Oklahoma City, with Muskogee, of the same state, standing second, with an increase of 494 per cent. The growth there is due to the fact that the entire state of Oklahoma is new and is rapidly filling up, its increase in population in the decade ending with 1910 having been 109 per cent, or more than any other state except Washington, whose growth in that same time was 120 per cent. That great commonwealth of the Northwest is diversifying its activities, and with 1,200,000 inhabitants, it is the most populous state west of the Rocky Mountains, except California. Its leading city, Seattle, with 237,000 people, grew to the extent of 194 per cent in the past 10 years. The largest rate of increase of any city of over 100,000 people west of the Mississippi in the decade was Los Angeles, 211 per cent. With 319,000 inhabitants, it is the largest city on the sunset side of that river, except St. Louis and San Francisco, and it will probably lead San Francisco by 1920. It is a health resort as well as a great business center. Among the older and larger cities east of the Mississippi the most notable gains in the decade were made by Chicago, 28 per cent; Bridgeport, 43 per cent; Columbus, Ohio, 44 per cent; Cleveland 47 per cent; Richmond, Va., 50 per cent, and Detroit, 63 per cent.

Its leading city, Seattle, with 237,000 people, grew to the extent of 194 per cent in the past 10 years. The largest rate of increase of any city of over 100,000 people west of the Mississippi in the decade was Los Angeles, 211 per cent. With 319,000 inhabitants, it is the largest city on the sunset side of that river, except St. Louis and San Francisco, and it will probably lead San Francisco by 1920. It is a health resort as well as a great business center. Among the older and larger cities east of the Mississippi the most notable gains in the decade were made by Chicago, 28 per cent; Bridgeport, 43 per cent; Columbus, Ohio, 44 per cent; Cleveland 47 per cent; Richmond, Va., 50 per cent, and Detroit, 63 per cent.

Two Men Killed By Sewer Gas

Joseph Murphy, contractor of Marion, Ohio, and Chas. Thomas, laborer, of Circleville, met death in a manhole while completing the Sanitary sewer in Circleville, Monday noon, and Howard Kelley almost met a like fate.

Murphy had gone down in the manhole when the deadly gas caused him to fall unconscious. Thomas went down to rescue the man and met death from the fumes. Kelley started down but was pulled back in time to save his life.

Many Will Attend Colored College

Six hundred students are expected to attend Wilberforce University, the famous negro college of Greene county, and this number sets a new record attendance for the school.

In previous years the number has never exceeded 400, but the increasing popularity and prosperity of the school has brought students from all over the country.

A new dormitory for the girls will be ready for occupancy by December 1st.

A called meeting of the local W. C. T. U. will be held Friday, 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Frank Kennedy, Market street, for the purpose of arranging for the coming county convention. SECY.

EAST STREET, WASHINGTON C.H., OHIO

IN SOCIETY

Few brides of any season have been more feted than Miss Helen Willis, whose wedding tomorrow morning will mean the loss to Washington's social circles of one of its most attractive girls.

Miss Willis was again the guest of honor yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Louise Stutson Potter and Miss Janet Stutson entertained with a small "Bridge", characterized by exquisite appointments.

Miss Willis was stunning in a graceful gown of grey charmeuse, with touches of rose velvet and rose velvet hat. Surrounding her were her bridesmaids, and a charming bevy of out-of-town girls.

Snap dragons and fern formed artistic decoration and the guest of honor was presented with a beautiful corsage bouquet of roses and fern.

Miss Harriet Rusk, of Zanesville, won the favor in the bridge game and presented it to Miss Willis.

An elaborate collation followed the game.

Mrs. Roy Reeves, of Columbus; Miss Rusk, of Zanesville; Miss Keith, of Nashville; Miss Workman, of Montgomery, Ala.; Miss Sybil Hoover, Gibson, Ill.; Miss Florence Beckel, Newark; Miss Sparks, Mt. Vernon, Ky.; Mrs. Ridgeway, Dayton; Miss Corinne Worden, of San Antonio, were out of town guests.

Misses Fanny and Charlotte Dahl entertained last night with a brilliant six o'clock dinner in honor of Mr. Graham Beckel and Miss Helen Willis, their guests confined to the bridal party and their own house guests and escorts.

The dinner, a progressive dinner of numerous courses, was as elaborate as it was beautiful in decoration. The feature of the decoration was immense gilt baskets, filled with pink roses, the handles tied with maline bows.

It was a dinner to which pretty girls, handsomely gowned, gallant beaux and every accessory contributed and a notable affair in the bridal events.

At one o'clock today Miss Helen Willis gave a luncheon to the maids of her bridal party and the girls who have entertained in her honor.

The table decorations of scarlet sylvia, scarlet shaded candles and smilax were brilliantly effective and the courses embraced every luncheon delicacy.

This evening Miss Willis and Mr. Beckel, with the members of the bridal party, motored to South Charleston and take dinner at the Houston Inn.

A delightful birthday anniversary was enjoyed on Monday at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Draper in Springfield. "The Seven Sisters" as a band of friends term themselves were all on hand to give pleasure. This band has for many years had an annual meeting at some one of their homes and in so doing "kept all their memories green." Besides the hostess, Mrs. Lizzie Draper, there were Mrs. Jane Mills, of Sabina; Miss Anna Spurgeon, Sabina; Mrs. Josie Peelle, Sabina; Mrs. Nora McDaniels, near Cooks Station; Mrs. Louisa Hays and Mrs. Clara Fultz, of Washington C. H., Ohio.

NEW CLOTHING COMPANY.

Within the past few days a large line of ladies' shoes has been added to the stock of the Wear-U-Well Shoe Co.

There will be a very important meeting for all ladies of the Grace M. E. church held in the church parlor Thursday at 2:30 p. m. 221 2t

Some complaint having been made about the B. & O. scales, which were alleged to be incorrect, Deputy Sealer of Weights and Measures, Henry Jones, overhauled the scales at the stock pens, and found that the scales were so nearly accurate that on every 1000 pounds they weighed "heavy" just 24 ounces.

He soon adjusted them and placed the seal of his office upon the scales so that all might see they had been tested and are now accurate.

Bull Moose Hold Meeting Much Enthusiasm Shown

County Provisional Committee Named and Organization Is to Be Made Thursday Night. Quiz Republican Candidate for Representative and Will Also Make Democratic Candidate Run Same Gantlet.

A meeting of the Bull Moose adherents, which is reported to have been full of enthusiasm, was held at Dr. C. E. Page's office Monday night, and only known Bull Moose were admitted.

Mr. Seth E. Parrett presided over the meeting and announced the names of all but three of the County Provisional committee, which he was delegated to select.

This committee, which will organize a Central Committee and an Executive Committee, is composed of the following men: J. E. Hopkins, Bart L. Sollars, W. H. Hansbrough, C. E. Page, Grant Marchant, Hugh K. Stewart, F. E. Hyer, Ed L. Dice, Chas. Sollars, George B. Swope, C. P. West and W. A. Elliott, C. E. Baughn, S. E. Shultz and N. C. Wilcox.

This committee will meet at Dr. Page's office Thursday evening at 7:30 and will effect an organization. All Bull Moose will be invited.

There were some twelve or fifteen who attended the meeting Tuesday night, and there is said to have been enough enthusiasm for a crowd twice the size.

Republican candidate for representative, C. A. Reid, was called in and questioned as to the principles for which he stands, and it said that the Democratic candidate, Mr. Thomas, will also be invited in and undergo the same ordeal. It has been virtually decided, according to members of the new party, that no candidate for representative will be placed in the field, and that no county ticket will be named by them.

Court Claims Salaries Too High

In a decision handed down by Judge Clarence Curtin, of Circleville, in the case of Belle Myers against the officers of the Chillicothe Electric Street Railway company, a return of some $19,000 was ordered by the court, who held that this amount had been paid in excess salaries to various members of the company who should have received less.

The overdraw of salaries dates back some six years and the men who are charged with receiving more than they should will have the amount to pay, if the decision of the court stands. The large salaries had been voted the officers by themselves.

SAVING MONEY AT HOME.
There's lots of wastefulness in soap. People usually argue that a cake of soap costs five cents and that's all there is to it. But it isn't. "Easy Task soap," for example, does twice the work of cheap, common rosin soaps, and costs the same. It does the work quicker, better and much more easily. Its saving qualities only begin with its price; it saves clothes, fuel and health. Don't use uncertain soaps. Get Easy Task at your grocer's.

Fifty Kinds For Romans

Nearly 50 kinds of wine were known to the ancient Romans, including several varieties used for medicinal purposes. Falernian was a home wine, resembling the modern Madeira, and was not commonly used until it was 16 years old. After it was 20 years old it affected the drinker unfavorably, causing headache.

Other wines were foreign. Chian, also called Ariusian, of which there were three varieties—Austere, sweet and intermediate—and the Lesbian, considered to be a diuretic, were of this kind. Some wines were named after their color, as white, dark and red. The white were thought to be the thinnest and least heating, the dark-colored and sweet the most nourishing, the red the most heating.

Certain wines named Myndian, Halicarnassian, Rhodian and Coan, were made with salt water. They were considered not to be intoxicating, but to produce digestion. Two wines, Cnidian and Adrian, were also medicinal. Mustum was a term applied to newly made or fresh juice of the grape. Protoprum was the juice which runs from the grapes without pressing. Mulsum was a mixture of wine and honey. Sapa was mustum boiled down to a third. Defrutum was mustum reduced to half, and Carenum was the same reduced to a third. Passum was a sweet wine prepared from grapes that had been dried in the sun. Passum creticum, also a sweet wine, is believed to have been the same as the wine which our forefathers called Malmsey, the wine in which the Duke of Clarence, brother of Edward IV, elected to be drowned.

A wine called Murrhina has a curious history. The Greeks had a wine of this kind which consisted of pure wine perfumed with odorous substances. The Romans had a wine similarly named, which is supposed to have been wine mingled with myrrh. It was administered to those who were about to suffer torture in order to inebriate them and to remove the sense of suffering.

The ancient wines retained their place probably until the end of the Middle Ages, but there is no reliable evidence bearing upon this point. Very slowly the names, rather than the wines, changed generally. The ancient wines, even those in use in Shakespeare's time, seem to have been less charged with alcohol than the wines of the present day. Even Malmsey, the strongest of them, contained only 12 per cent of spirit, and sack a little more than half that amount.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

STRANGE CLAIMS IN COURT

Law Suits of Peculiar Origin That Have Been Placed on the Records by Lawyers.

The recent claim for damages brought against a great London (England) shop by a consumptive clerk, on the ground that the insanitary state of the office had brought on his disease, drew from the judge the remark that this was the first case of the sort that had ever come before the courts.

Cases even more remarkable keep cropping up at intervals, though, fortunately, they are seldom of so grave a nature.

Some ten years ago, for instance, a Birmingham commercial traveler sued a chemist for compensation for the damages done by a special hair dye which the chemist, its inventor, had guaranteed would turn his customer's hair an enduring brown.

What it really did was to turn his hair a curious bluish tinge, with patches of gray. The chemist had offered to compromise by supplying his indignant customer with any recognized make of dye he wished for the rest of his life. But an action followed, and the piebald traveler secured damages.

One of the funniest cases ever brought into a court of law was surely that which tickled all Australia toward the end of the last century. A young Sydney business woman had mixed a secret drink cure with her brother's breakfast coffee.

The brother found the effect extremely unwelcome, and when he realized who was responsible for his fading interest in strong drink, he was ungrateful enough to sue his sister for $3,000 damages for "consequent loss of thirst." But an unsympathetic jury took the sister's side.

A case that roused great interest in medical circles, as well as a good deal of amusement, was an action brought a good many years ago by a surgeon at a London hospital against a colleague for the loss of an ear.

A diseased ear was to be amputated. The patient, struggling under chloroform, was being held down. Just then the lights went out. The patient fell off the edge of the table in his struggles and the junior surgeon leant over after him. The operator felt an ear in his hand, and thinking he might not get another opportunity, the patient being so abnormally restless, made one swift, neat slash. The operation was successful, but the ear was the wrong man's.

Bull Moose Hold Meeting Much Enthusiasm Shown

County Provisional Committee Named and Organization is to be made Thursday night. Only Republican Candidate for Representative and Will Also Make Democratic Candidate Run Same Gantlet.

A meeting of the Bull Moose adherents, which is reported to have been full of enthusiasm, was held at Dr. C. E. Page's office Monday night, and only known Bull Moose were admitted.

Mr. Seth E. Parrett presided over the meeting and announced the names of all but three of the County Provisional committee, which he was delegated to select.

This committee, which will organize a Central Committee and an Executive Committee, is composed of the following men: J. E. Hopkins, Bart L. Sollars, W. H. Hansbrough, C. E. Page, Grant Marchant, Hugh K. Stewart, F. E. Hyer, Ed L. Dice, Chas. Sollars, George B. Swope, C. P. West and W. A. Elliott, C. E. Baughn, S. E. Shultz and N. C. Wilcox.

This committee will meet at Dr. Page's office Thursday evening at 7:30 and will effect an organization. All Bull Moose will be invited.

There were some twelve or fifteen who attended the meeting Tuesday night, and there is said to have been enough enthusiasm for a crowd twice the size.

Republican candidate for representative, C. A. Reid, was called in and questioned as to the principles for which he stands, and it said that the Democratic candidate, Mr. Thomas, will also be invited in and undergo the same ordeal. It has been virtually decided, according to members of the new party, that no candidate for representative will be placed in the field, and that no county ticket will be named by them.

Court Claims Salaries Too High

In a decision handed down by Judge Clarence Curtin, of Circleville, in the case of Belle Myers against the officers of the Chillicothe Electric Street Railway company, a return of some $19,000 was ordered by the court, who held that this amount had been paid in excess salaries to various members of the company who should have received less.

The overdraw of salaries dates back some six years and the men who are charged with receiving more than they should will have the amount to pay, if the decision of the court stands. The large salaries had been voted the officers by themselves.

SAVING MONEY AT HOME.
There's lots of wastefulness in soap. People usually argue that a cake of soap costs five cents and that's all there is to it. But it isn't. "Easy Task soap," for example, does twice the work of cheap, common rosin soaps, and costs the same. It does the work quicker, better and much more easily. Its saving qualities only begin with its price; it saves clothes, fuel and health. Don't use uncertain soaps. Get Easy Task at your grocer's.

PHYSICIAN TO LATE KING.

"Mary, did you know that Dr. Faure Miller, the Paris Physician to the King and Queen of England, gave to Kate Seaton Mason, the famous English hair specialist, a very strong testimonial, regarding her effectual treatment of the hair? So, also, did other prominent London and New York Physicians, and I am convinced there is nothing like Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream to keep the hair and scalp in health.

"It stands to reason that Mrs. Mason's old English hair preparations must be the best in the world, or else Dr. Faure Miller, the Duchess of Marlborough, Mme. Melba, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, and the leading society women and physicians of New York, London and Paris, would not have given her such letters of recommendation.

"I have quite a few friends who have been sending to New York for these preparations, but Blackmer & Tanquary right in our own city, has now taken the agency for both the shampoo cream and hair tonic.

SOUTHPAWS ARE UNCERTAIN

Exception Taken to Statement by New York Writer—Case of "Doc" White and Others Cited.

A writer in the New York Telegram takes issue with the statement that left-handed pitchers are an uncertain lot and never have two good seasons in succession, and says: "That's just about as far from the truth as several other recent observations which have been made. How about Waddell as a left-hander who was consistently good? Derby was one, Kilroy was one, Ramsey was one, Lady Baldwin was one, Richmond was one, Breitenstein

"Doc" White.

another. White has been a success. Wiltse has averaged much the same for a long run of years. Plank is one of the best and most enduring pitchers in the history of the game, and there are plenty more. When a left-hander's arm loses its strength and his fingers their cunning, he falls out of baseball like the right-hander, but there's many a page of baseball history which is graced by the masterly work of the southpaws."

Pirates Secure Butler.

The Pirates have secured Butler, the great shortstop of the St. Paul club and have given five men in return for him. Pitcher Gardner, Third Baseman Walter Reh, Infielder Bill McKechnie, and a catcher, and an outfielder yet to be named, are to go for him.

Senators Make Money.

The Washington club is going to make a lot of money this year. One of the dopesters has figured it out that the Senators will earn close to $100,000 before the end of the season.

Detroit Makes Many Changes.

More changes have been made in the pitching staff of the Detroit team this season than in any other club in the American league.

CLARKE TO QUIT AS MANAGER OF PIRATES

Manager Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh.

Will Fred Clarke manage the Pittsburgh baseball club next year? In some quarters there prevails the belief that Clarke is about to retire from the game to his ranch and four mill in the Sunflower state.

Fred's contract as manager of the Pittsburgh club expires this year. It is not known whether he will renew it or not. It was believed when he last signed that the document was a two-year affair. It wasn't; it was for one year only—until the end of the 1912 season.

It is believed the greatest left fielder that ever lived is growing tired—that he is becoming wearied of the hurly-burly life of baseball—that he believes the time has come when he should settle down with his family to enjoy the good things his many strenuous years of endeavor on the baseball diamond have earned for him. Clarke cannot achieve greater honors than are his. He has shown himself to be one of the great leaders of baseball; he has won pennants and also a world's championship. No greater reward exists for the baseball manager.

Clarke has been at the head of the great Pittsburgh club since 1901 when, with Wagner, Phillippe, Leach and other stars, he came from Louisville, the Colonels being transferred bodily to the Smoky City. He has made a name for himself—a name that will live as long as baseball lives. He has made his team a team that has been feared by all others—a team which has always been up front in the National league race.

But, all things must come to an end. So must Fred Clarke's tenure of office as manager of the Pittsburgh club be concluded some day. Fred is now past forty and a wealthy man. His wife has been urging him for years to quit the diamond life and settle down. When asked by a baseball scribe the other day as to whether or not he was to retire, Clarke was evasive. Finally he stated in reply to the reporter's repeated inquiries that he might and he might not. This was all that could be learned from him.

Much speculation is being indulged in by the baseball fans of Pittsburgh and other cities as to who would be Clarke's successor in the event of his retirement. Some pick Hans Wagner. They base their supposition on the fact that Hans is slowly but surely going back and that a berth as leader of a National league club would be just to his liking. Others assert that Hans was never cut out for a manager and, furthermore, that it will be some time before it will be necessary for the Pirate star to quit the diamond, as he is now playing one of the best games of his career. He was a little slow in getting started this season, they say, but now he is going great guns. It was only the other day that Johnny McGraw declared that old Honus was still the best ball player on the diamond and McGraw knows a good player about as well as any one connected with the game—possibly a little better.

Beals Becker of the Giants, in six batting efforts recently, got three bases on balls, and three blows on the head.

The only club in the American association this year that is making anything like good money is the Minneapolis Millers.

Columbus has bought Pitcher Jack Kimball from Pittsburgh. He had been with Indianapolis, but was turned back to Pittsburgh.

A Pittsburgh fan who says he fell into a ventilator while leaving Forbes Field and crippled himself has sued Barney Dreyfuss for $25,000.

A perfect game was pitched by Williams of Bridgeport of the O.P. league against Follansbee on August 13. Not a man reached first on him.

FAMOUS "BONEHEAD" PLAYS ON MAJOR LEAGUE DIAMONDS
Explained by Leading Baseball Players to
HUGH S. FULLERTON

BY JOHN J. EVERS,

Second Baseman Chicago Cubs, Who Has for Years Been Rated as the Quickest Thinker of the Modern Game.

Perhaps I have made a lot worse plays than the one of which I am going to tell, but in my estimation it was the worst I ever made. At least it made me feel more foolish than any other I ever made, and it hurt worse. I'm not ashamed of it, because the fellow who outthought me and made me look bad is probably the greatest ball player that ever lived. At the time, however, I felt about as cheap as anyone could feel.

The play came in one of the world's series games at Detroit in 1907. We had heard a lot about Cobb and his batting and base running, but we didn't know him as well then as we do now, and refused to give him credit for everything that was claimed for him. Besides that, our pitchers were just about right, and as they were paying particular attention to Cobb, the Georgia Peach didn't have much chance to do anything. We were all tickled and were giving Cobb the laugh at every opportunity, all of which made it worse for me.

The score was close in the game of which I speak, and Cobb came to bat with one out and smashed a hard hit between right and center. Slagle went over fast and kept the ball from getting between the fielders, in which case it would have been a home run for Cobb, and as the score was close it would have given Detroit the lead right there. The ball came to Slagle in such an awkward position, and he had to try so hard to reach it at all, that he could not recover in time to get the ball back quickly, and I ran out about thirty feet to meet his throw. Cobb had rounded first and was coming down to second with all his might. I could hear him but couldn't see him. Slagle threw the ball to me, and I tried a play that seemed wise and foxy. I expected Cobb to overrun the base a little and come back, and as I caught Slagle's throw I swung and ran for the bag, without looking, intending to slide at him and try to keep him from getting back to the base. I was within ten feet of the bag and running hard when I discovered that my plan was all wrong. Cobb had slowed up as he came to second base, taken one glance at me, saw what I was trying to do, and instead of stopping, turned second base at top speed and was sprinting as hard as he could for third. I was so surprised that I hesitated for a second, took a high, wild shot at third, threw the ball ten feet over Steinfeld's head into the crowd, and before Steiny could find that ball the Tigers were ahead.

It was the first bit of Cobb's wonderful base running we ever had seen, and I for one didn't try to kid him much after that; only I kept quiet and Washington Team Has Won Seven "Cellar" Championships in Twenty-Two Years in Major Leagues—Never Stood Very High.

The wonderful spurt made by the Washington Americans this season under the skillful leadership of Clark Griffith has been the talk of the whole baseball world, as the fans at the seat of government have waited in vain for a pennant contender during the past 25 seasons.

The Washington club succeeded the Providence team in the National league in 1886. This circuit was made up as an eight-club league until the early 90's, when it expanded into a circuit composed of 12 clubs.

Starting with the season of 1886, the Senators finished as tail-enders in 1886, 1888 and 1889, claiming seventh place in 1887. They dropped out in 1890 and 1891, but came back into a 12-club circuit the following season. In 1892 they finished tenth and repeated in 1895. The season of 1893 found them once more the cellar champions. In 1894, 1895 and 1898 they managed to cling to eleventh place, refusing to be pushed to the bottom rung again.

In 1896 things took on a brighter look and the team pulled up in ninth place at the finish. The season of 1897 was a banner one for the down-trodden Washingtonians, for they climbed to the seventh rung, finishing as proud leaders of the second division teams in the 12-club circuit.

Washington dropped out of the National league again in 1900 and joined the new American league under Ban Johnson in 1902. In an eight-club circuit the team dropped to sixth place in 1902. They claimed the cellar championship in 1904, 1907 and 1909.

The seasons of 1903, 1906, 1908, 1910 and 1911 found the Washington representation struggling along in seventh place at the close of these respective seasons.

Summing up the record of the Washington team for 22 seasons we find they have won seven cellar championships, finishing in 10 seasons as runners-up for the tail-end consolation, three times on the third rung from the bottom of the ladder, once in ninth place in a 12-club circuit and last but not least leaders for the first and only time of the second division.

waited for a chance to pull off something on him. We came from behind and won the game anyhow, but I tell you I felt relieved when it was over and I knew my piece of slow thinking hadn't given the Tigers the game as well as the lead.

PHYSICIAN TO LATE KING.

"Mary, did you know that Dr. Faure Miller, the Paris Physician to the King and Queen of England, gave to Kate Seaton, the famous English Hair Specialist, a very strong testimonial, regarding her effectual treatment of the hair? So, also, did other prominent London and New York Physicians, and I am convinced there is nothing like Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream to keep the hair and scalp in health.
"It stands to reason that Mrs. Mason's old English hair preparations must be the best in the world, or else Dr. Faure Miller, the Duchess of Marlborough, Mme. Melba, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, and the leading society women and physicians of New York, London and Paris, would not have given her such letters of recommendation.
"I have quite a few friends who have been sending to New York for these preparations, but Blackmer & Tanquary right in our own city, has now taken the agency for both the shampoo cream and hair tonic.

Exception Taken to Statement by New York Writer—Case of "Doc" White and Others Cited.

A writer in the New York Telegram takes issue with the statement that left-handed pitchers are an uncertain lot and never have two good seasons in succession, and says: "That's just about as far from the truth as several other recent observations which have been made. How about Waddell as a left-hander who was consistently good? Derby was one, Kilroy was one, Ramsey was one, Lady Baldwin was one, Richmond was one, Breitenstein

another. White has been a success. Wiltse has averaged much the same for a long run of years. Plank is one of the best and most enduring pitchers in the history of the game, and there are plenty more. When a left-hander's arm loses its strength and his fingers their cunning, he falls out of baseball like the right-hander, but there's many a page of baseball history which is graced by the masterly work of the southpaws."

Pirates Secure Butler.

The Pirates have secured Butler, the great shortstop of the St. Paul club and have given five men in return for him. Pitcher Gardner, Third Baseman Walter Rehg, Infielder Bill McKechnie, and a catcher, and an outfielder yet to be named, are to go for him.

The Washington club is going to make a lot of money this year. One of the dopesters has figured it out that the Senators will earn close to $100,000 before the end of the season.

Detroit Makes Many Changes.

Excess Pay of Railroads Will Go to Mail Clerks

Promotion for 13,000 railway postal clerks on October 1 will be provided in orders issued by Postmaster General Hitchcock. In the railway mail service there are 16,700 clerks and a majority of those not promoted on October 1 will receive more pay before the end of the current fiscal year. More than a million dollars will be expended in making the promotions.

A reorganization of the railway mail service and increased pay for postal clerks were authorized in the recently enacted postoffice appropriation bill. The project was urged by Postmaster General Hitchcock in the belief that it would result in far greater efficiency in the service and in the making of promotions along fairer lines.

Although more than $1,000,000 a year will be involved in the increase it will cost the government no more. Postmaster Hitchcock has perfected a plan to save that amount by a rearrangement of railway mail car space and the amount the government pays annually to the railroads.

The new law provides for three classes of railway postal lines, with their transfer and terminal offices. The compensation will be highest for lines on which work is heaviest. Beginning with $900 a year, all clerks who render faithful and efficient service will receive annual promotions of $100 until they reach the maximum of the successive annual grades after which they may be promoted for specially meritorious service until their pay reaches $1,800 a year. Chief clerks in the railway service will receive salaries of $2,000.

Hitherto it has been the custom to promote railway clerks only when vacancies occurred through death, resignation or removal. Hereafter railway clerks will have assurance of annual promotions, within the limits indicated, so long as they faithfully discharge their duties.

This is the method applied satisfactorily for several years in adjusting the compensation of postoffice clerks and city letter carriers; but the range of salaries for railway clerks will be higher because of the hazardous nature of their employment.

PLANS RELIGION FOR JAPAN

Mr. Izawa Would Have It Center About the Divine Right of the Emperor.

Mr. Izawa, ex-vice-minister of education, is the originator of a plan to provide Japan with an entirely new religion. The new religious body, according to the Japan Advertiser, is to be called "The State Religious Community of Japan," and Mr. Izawa explains his proposal as follows:

"The Japanese Empire having been governed by one imperial family since the very beginning, the emperor possesses divine right. Such a policy can hardly be found in any other country. In China it has happened that the emperor abdicated; his throne to be succeeded by one of his former subjects. Then, too, when the German emperor spoke once of his divine right, he was strongly criticised. But in Japan the emperor is the descendant of Ameno-minakanuchi-no-Kami, the creator of the world. Hence the imperial family being a divine race is entirely different from the race of Japanese."

"This Ameno-minakanuchi-no-Kami is the only creator of the world, and he has existed since the beginning and still exists. He is called emperor of Heaven in China, Buddha in India, and God in Western countries. My plan is to gather a religious community around our emperor for the purpose of cultivating among its members loyalty toward the emperor and of elevating their moral ideas."

"AS to the citizens of other countries, they are all living under the gracious protection of the Creator of the world, so that they can become members of this religious community if they become subjects of the Japanese emperor."

Mental Processes in the Brain.

We have no facts which at present will enable us to locate the mental processes in the brain any better than they were located fifty years ago. That the mental processes may be due to cerebral activities we may believe, but with what anatomical elements the individual mental processes may be connected we do not know. Notwithstanding our ignorance, it would appear best and most scientific that we should not adhere to any of the phrenological systems, however scientific they may appear to be on the surface. We should be willing to stand with Brodmann, believing that mind is a function or an attribute of the brain as a whole, or is a concomitant of cerebral operations, but I at least am unwilling to stand with the histological localizationists on the ground of a special mental process for special cerebral areas or for special cerebral cell groups.—Shepherd Ivory Franz, in Science.

Cucumber 40 Years Old.

A dispatch from Findlay, O., to the New York American says: "Mrs. John F. Moore of Arcadia has a cucumber 40 years old. When she was Miss Sarah Lefferson, 40 years ago, she pulled a small cucumber with a portion of vine attached to it and stuck it in a bottle. When it grew large the cucumber was placed in a bottle and sealed, and to this day has retained its color and freshness."

Fishing With an Octopus

The accompanying photograph represents what might aptly be termed fishing extraordinary. Suda bay, off the coast of Crete, is frequently used by the British fleet in the Mediterranean for gunnery practice. During the ships' stay in these waters it often occurs that such articles as dishes, plates, basins and the like are lost from them and lie at the bottom of the sea. The natives, anxious to retrieve the articles for their own use, adopt an ingenious method of obtaining them. Having located the lost article by means of a kind of sea-telescope, they lower a captive octopus, which, alighting on the object, immediately encircles it with its tentacles. The octopus is then drawn up still clinging to the lost article. The photograph shows the octopus with a plate.

Get Habit of Quiet Speaking.

The easiest of bad habits to acquire is that of speaking loudly. Language has become so complex that not only is it necessary to say the right thing, but it must be said in the right way. A phrase may be said in jest or in earnest; a rebuke may be kindly or stern; an order may be willingly or unwillingly received according to the tone in which it has been said. Many a faithful workman is unjustly accused of unwillingness and disloyalty because of the churlish manner in which orders are received; many a master is regarded as unfeeling by his employees because his actions are forgotten and only the sting of his sharp manner remembered.

Unavailing Hero Worship.

Herman Perlet, the musical director and composer, was recruiting a philharmonic orchestra and had enlisted the services of an Italian acquaintance. Among the instrumentalists he procured was a very old man with an antiquated flute from which he was able to get a wheezy tone now and then. "Take him away!" ordered Perlet after the first rehearsal. "He can't play the flute. What! That man can't play a flute!" gasped the sponsor. "Not in this orchestra. Take him away!" "Maledetta!" He rolled his eyes heavenward. "That man can't play a flute!" And he beat his breast in indignation. "Why, that man he fights with Garibaldi!"

Excess Pay of Railroads Will Go to Mail Clerks

Promotion for 13,000 railway postal clerks on October 1 will be provided in orders issued by Postmaster General Hitchcock. In the railway mail service there are 16,700 clerks and a majority of those not promoted on October 1 will receive more pay before the end of the current fiscal year. More than a million dollars will be expended in making the promotions.

A reorganization of the railway mail service and increased pay for postal clerks were authorized in the recently enacted postoffice appropriation bill. The project was urged by Postmaster General Hitchcock in the belief that it would result in far greater efficiency in the service and in the making of promotions along fairer lines.

Although more than $1,000,000 a year will be involved in the increases it will cost the government no more. Postmaster Hitchcock has perfected a plan to save that amount by a rearrangement of railway mail car space and the amount the government pays annually to the railroads.

The new law provides for three classes of railway postal lines, with their transfer and terminal offices. The compensation will be highest for lines on which work is heaviest. Beginning with $900 a year, all clerks who render faithful and efficient service will receive annual promotions of $100 until they reach the maximum of the successive annual grades after which they may be promoted for specially meritorious service until their pay reaches $1,800 a year. Chief clerks in the railway service will receive salaries of $2,000.

Hitherto it has been the custom to promote railway clerks only when vacancies occurred through death, resignation or removal. Hereafter railway clerks will have assurance of annual promotions, within the limits indicated, so long as they faithfully discharge their duties.

This is the method applied satisfactorily for several years in adjusting the compensation of postoffice clerks and city letter carriers; but the range of salaries for railway clerks will be higher because of the hazardous nature of their employment.
